Serving a Growing University Since 1920

Wednesday, Feb. 23, 1966

Bowling Green State University, Bowling Green, Ohio

Vol. 50, No. 70

EDUCATION IS the topic of the newest issue of the University Magazine and College of Education Dean Theodore Jenson, center, checks over the first copy with Dr. Wesley Erbe, director of graduate studies in education and Dr. Anthony Saville, Chairman of the education department.

Education Theme For BG Magazine

The future of the college of education and a brief look at its history, is the theme of the February-March issue of the Bowling Green University Magazine, which will be distributed next week.

"This is the first time we have ever attempted to cover a single theme in an issue of the magazine," Albert Walker, editor of University publications, said.

He also said this would be the first of a series in which the magazine would deal with various single themes.

The magazine provides an overall view of the education program--the long range plans, the Ph. D. program, the new education building, and a comparison of the past and present, Mr. Walker said.

In an overview article by Dr. Theodore J. Jenson, dean of the college of education, a new kind of teacher is described.

Dr. Jenson says teachers have "evolved from the predominant posture of a normal school graduate, with minimum academic preparation and a bag of tricks, to becoming predominantly a group whose members have a broad education and a high level of competence."

He also says in the article that a professionalism is emerging in the new teacher ranks and that a new type of preparation is necessary to train the teachers.

Dr. Jenson, in discussing the prospects for the future, says "the explosion of knowledge places a heavy burden on teacher education programs to provide adequate basic content background in the various subject areas."

Included in the magazine is the first picture of the new education building which is to be constructed at the west end of the old football field.

In an article about the building, Dr. Anthony Saville, chairman of the department of education, said "rooms represent a variety of dimensions from lecture halls to seminar and conference rooms, and invite experimentation with large sections, small discussion groups, and team teaching."

Groundbreaking for the five-story building is set for June and a "Child Development and Special Education Research Center" is tentatively planned for the south campus, near the WBGU-TV studio.

Two articles in the special issue deal with the student teaching program, which was started here in 1914, and the Reading Center, which began in 1941.

They compare the programs as they are today with the original program.

The Ph. D. program in Education, is discussed in one article. Dean Jenson calls the University's program "unique in its interdisciplinary approach and attention to research, case methods, international seminar and urban internship experience, and urban internship experience."

Mr. Walker said the special issue also stresses the interdisciplinary approach used by the department.

Leg. Board Amends Case Review Policy

Acceptance of a new procedure for review of cases by Judicial Board and the unanimous approval of the revised open house proposal were the main points of business at the AWS Legislative Board meeting yesterday afternoon.

The change in procedure concerning judicial review will provide that the Judicial Board meeting last not more than 1 1/2 hours and that no more than 30 minutes be provided to allow interested faculty and other persons who are members of Judicial Board to present their views and opinions. The rest of the meeting will be for discussion of the case by the Judicial Board only.

The AWS constitution previously stated that only the woman whose case is before the board can testify in her defense.

The judicial review consists of reviewing constitutional points, policies, and regulations that are felt to be unconstitutional by the person presenting the case for review.

Judicial Board can only report and recommend motions to the Legislative Board, it cannot take action on them.

The change in procedure for judicial review came as a result of judicial proceedings Monday nights concerning the appeal and apparent dismissal of the case of Dianne Williams. Miss Williams appealed a decision made by her houseboard which stated that since she did not attend a mandatory corridor meeting she would receive an automatic campus.

Miss Williams took the case to the judicial board but was denied her request to introduce legal representatives under the aforementioned clause of the constitution.

Miss Williams has been given instructions on how to proceed with review of the constitutional point in question.

The approval of the open house proposal will allow women to visit men's residence halls during open houses scheduled with the Director of Student Activities, for times during the weekend.

The proposal acceptance came as a result of a proposal by Shatzel Hall for open houses in the dormitory every afternoon, from 2 to 5 p.m. The proposal was initiated because the men in Shatzel felt that due to inadequate main lounge facilities, the rooms would be better places to "get together with friends who, for instance, have the same hobbies," said Dave Bruck, Shatzel Hall representative.

The revised proposal provides that women may visit fraternity houses and men's residence halls from 10 a.m. to ten minutes before the closing hours, providing the resident hall director is present. (This remains as previously stated in the AWS handbook.) The change states that women students may visit the living quarters of men in fraternity

BG Health Center Commuters Haven?

By JUDY LAKE
Issue Editor

Editor's note: This is the second in a series of articles dealing with the problems of commuters.

"Commuters do not have an identity. Their anchor to the University is essentially their automobiles."

With these words Dr. Donnal V. Smith, dean of students, has proposed that Johnston Hall (presently the health center) be converted into a center for commuters.

The ground floor and first floor would be made available for commuting students so that they would have a headquarters both for storage, study and resting. Dean Smith proposed this plan in a letter to President William T. Jerome in April, 1965.

Commuters have less opportunity to meet other students casually and formally, than resident students," Dean Smith said. He added that the proposed commuter center would provide a way to make social and educational contacts for commuters.

A lack of communication between commuters was cited by Dean Smith as the basic problem. "If we had a center, they would begin visiting it and would talk about their personal commuting problems with persons in the same position," he commented.

The Commuter Committee of Student Council is recruiting commuters to serve on a committee which would investigate the needs and problems of commuters.

Paul Buehrer, freshman representative to Council and member of the Commuter Committee, said that the commuters must be "better organized so they have a better chance to participate on campus affairs."

Interested commuters are urged to contact Dean Smith or a member of the Commuter Committee.

Completion of the new health center is expected in Spring, 1967.

Dean Smith said the old health center could be converted so that it would facilitate such rooms as women's and men's lounges, locker rooms, studying and typing lounges and a recreation room.

"The commuter would then have a Bowling Green identity," Dean Smith said. "It (the commuter center) would give the commuters a different way of thinking about Bowling Green than he does have now, as he jumps in and out of his car. Instead of an automobile, he will have the commuter center for his headquarters."

In a survey of 111 commuters compiled by Council's Commuter Committee in 1964, it was discovered that the majority of the commuters felt there was a lack of communication between campus organizations, the administration and the commuters. If a center were established, 93 students indicated they would use the center at an average of 14 hours per week.

Major problems for commuters listed in the survey were book load and extra clothing to be carried, lunch-standing in line or eating in a car, communication and isolation and group relations.

A proposal to use part of the present Library as the commuter center also is being put before the Commuter Committee, Dean Smith said.

UAO To Sponsor Lecture On Iran

The Lecture, Debate and Review Committee of the Union Activities Organization will sponsor an illustrated travel lecture featuring Mrs. Charlotte Timm, a University librarian, at 7:30 p.m. today in the Dogwood Suite.

Mrs. Timm will speak on the geography, history and development of Iran. She will show slides of her recent visit to Iran denoting the work of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) in combating illiteracy and poverty in Iran.

She will also show a film on the Middle East.

Mrs. Timm will use a double-screen slide projector developed by Dr. Glenn H. Daniels, associate professor of education. This will allow her to show two slides simultaneously, thus contrasting between the old Iran and Iran today.

There will be no admission charge.

Currently, Mrs. Timm has an exhibit of Persian copper, brass, and enamel wares on display on the second floor of the Union.

There is no admission charge.

Gown Orders Due

Candidates for June 4 commencement are advised to have their measurements taken at the University Bookstore in the Union. No cash is needed the time of the order.

Grave Error

A grave error has been committed by AWS Judicial Board in refusing to allow three professors and a News reporter to attend a student appeal case Monday evening.

A University student, Dianne Williams, was appealing a "campus" given by her house board. After the "hearing" our reporter tried to reach top representatives of the Board, both by phone and in person, and was unable to do so.

Miss Williams says she thinks the Board has "nullified" her appeal, partly on the basis that Miss Williams withdrew it. Miss Williams denies withdrawing her appeal.

Point 1: Who is to know what really happened inside closed doors when a News reporter is refused admittance? It is in violation of the tradition of most courts in the United States today.

Point 2: When three professors, none of them witnesses, are also refused admittance, we can't help but ask why. All three had every right to be admitted.

Dr. John T. Greene, associate professor of psychology, was representing the Presidential Committee on Regulations, Courts and Penalties; Dr. Sheldon Halpern, assistant professor of English, was representing the student affairs committee of the Bowling Green chapter of the American Association of University Professors; and Dr. Sherman Stanage, associate professor of philology, was there because of his "serious questions about depriving students of liberties."

The fact that Miss Williams could call no witnesses or be represented by counsel is again a vast withdrawal from the American judicial theory, where every man may have his day in court... complete with witnesses and counsel.

AWS Judicial Board must start revamping its organization and policies with regard to allowing the foregoing rights of individuals on this campus.

Library Experiment

Students, both graduate and undergraduate, have spoken very vociferously in the past in favor of an open library on Saturday nights.

Dr. A. Robert Rogers finally consented to try this idea experimentally this semester. If the trial fails, the previous system will probably go into effect again next fall.

The first night of this experiment, Saturday, Feb. 12, saw at the peak time, only 40 students in the Library. Definitely not enough to rationally continue this plan.

This past Saturday night the total increased somewhat. At the peak hour there were about 75 students in the Library. But still this is, according to Dr. Rogers, "Below the guidelines I have established as reasonable."

"There should be about one per cent turnout of the student body," he explained, or at least 100 persons.

Enough students are needed to make this extension of hours worthwhile, as Dr. Rogers pointed out, because, even at minimum, one regular librarian and six student assistants must be working to round out just a skeleton crew. And, of course, such work requires pay. The University can't afford to waste the money if the students don't use the service.

Dr. Rogers also explained that if students were worried about crowded conditions when they come to the Library, they should try to make use of the hours when the Library is not crowded. He pointed out that some of these off-hours exist at 8 to 9 a.m. every day, all morning on Saturday's, and now Saturday evenings.

"By stretching the hours with our available facilities, like the new Saturday night hours, we are attempting to accommodate the students' needs," said Dr. Rogers. "But when the new Library is completed, the existing facilities will be much larger, and hours may not be stretched."

The increase in use of the Library on Saturday nights from the first week to the second week was encouraging, but not satisfactory. Students, if you want these extra hours, you must show it while this experiment is continuing.

Responsibility Of Drivers

To the editor:

In his column in the B-G News of Thursday, February 17, David Brunner makes the statement, "Before rules are enforced this rigidly, it is the responsibility of the University to provide adequate parking space."

I wonder on what he bases his statement concerning the University's responsibility to the student car owner, and in view of the many violations I have seen in the area around the Fine Arts Building, I also wonder how seriously many take the responsibility of driving.

To cite a few violations not only of campus regulations but also of safety, there is speeding, parking on crosswalks so pedestrians must walk onto East Wooster Street, and a constant bottleneck resulting from triple parking on the three lane road west of Conklin, whether by delivery trucks or student cars parked there for "just a minute."

The University architect's office assures me that there is adequate space on the periphery of the campus for cars of resident students. The parking lot north of Memorial Hall, reserved for commuters, is seldom full even when classes are in full swing.

One catalog states that no student may drive a car even as a commuter unless he presents evidence of off-campus, off-street parking facilities paid up for the entire semester!

Would one solution on the local campus be similar restrictions? If students insist upon parking facilities right at their front doors, perhaps this would be one way of reducing the number of cars or the number of students, and perhaps even the number of faculty members.

'Pep' Band?

To the editor:

Wednesday evening (Feb. 16) the students and fans of Bowling Green were treated to a tremendous display of school spirit, the "pep" band left the game at halftime.

While the team carried a slim, three-point lead into the second half; while fans and cheerleaders were screaming cheers for their Falcons, they were abandoned by the "pep" band.

We are sure we speak not only for ourselves but for many other students who have real school spirit when we say that if the BG pep band can't find time to stay and play their fight songs for both halves of the game, then allow their reserved seats to be occupied by students and other fans who are truly backing their team. We don't want a "half-pep" band.

'Nice' Film

To the editor:

The film which was shown over Channel 11 at half-time during the B.G.-T.U. basketball game was rather interesting. Viewers were informed initially that (1) B.G. is not located in the hills of southern Ohio, and (2) B.G. is not situated in a metropolitan area.

From this point on, the apparent intention of the film was to point out that in spite of the aforementioned drawbacks (?), the University does offer the following: (a) the largest football stadium in the Mid-American Conference, (b) an ice arena, (c) a field house, (d) sororities and fraternities, (e) nice kitchens in the dorms, and (f) a Union which serves coffee.

Academically, well, forget it... and they did. I am wondering how many prospective students who saw this film and are academically oriented will do the same.

Assistant Professor of Geology

Thorn In Side

To the editor:

Your review of "The Nights of Cabiria" in the Feb. 17 issue was another thorn in the side of a yet blossoming Bowling Green cultural attitude.

Although there are many here who appreciate the offerings of fine art few of them seem to be on your staff. To call the main character "a little street-walker... who plys her trade in one of the dark corners of the city," is gilding the lily.

Are we to assume that she is illegally selling night flowering plants or have you forgotten that a rose is a rose is a rose even when it appears in a film on the Bowling Green campus?

Is AWS Board Hanging Self?

By GRACE PHENEGER
Columnist

At the risk of being accused of conducting a personal vendetta against a particular campus organization, which is not my intention, I feel an obligation to comment on Monday's session of the AWS Judicial Board.

Customary practice in courts of law throughout the nation, even in the Supreme Court, is to have public hearings.

Indeed, the Constitution states that persons accused of crimes are entitled to speedy and public trials. On our own campus, one half of the judicial system, the Student Court, conducts open hearings.

In the other half of the judicial body, the AWS houseboards and Judicial Board, the "public" element of the hearing is denied.

The effect of this denial, along with AWS's denial of the right of counsel, is that of stacking the deck against the appellant or defendant in its proceedings.

Granted, that AWS is not a court of law and that it therefore has more latitude in the determination of its practices than a court of law could have.

In Monday's case, a peculiar situation arose. Judicial Board ruled that the appellant had withdrawn her appeal. The defendant denies that she made any remark with the intent of withdrawing the appeal.

My question is, "What really happened?" The public will never know because (1) the hearing was conducted behind closed doors with only the appellant and the Board in attendance, and (2) no verbatim transcript of the hearing exists.

There are grounds for disputing the fairness and integrity of the Board's proceedings precisely because there is divided opinion on what transpired, and on the meaning of what was said. This occurred despite the Board's attempt to act with all good intentions and despite the appellant's desire for a hearing.

The dispute might have been settled if a verbatim record of what was said had been kept. It might have been prevented if the students and faculty members who sought admission had been allowed to witness the proceedings.

The appellant had sought advisors to aid in presenting her case. Faculty members had sought admission on the grounds that they were officially making studies of judicial proceedings. All were denied admission on the dubious grounds that the AWS constitution does not specifically state that persons other than the Judicial Board might be present.

If this strict interpretation were carried to its logical conclusion, the defendant herself would not be permitted to witness the proceedings. For she is not named in the constitutional provision.

Judicial Board is hanging itself with such an interpretation as it rendered Monday night. My suggestion is that AWS alter its position in order to avoid similar situations and in order to assure the fairness of its proceedings.

It should, in the interest of justice, permit observers and counsel for the defense at all of its hearings if the defendant/appellant agrees to the presence of such persons, all of whom would be requested to leave during the Board's deliberations.

It should, also in the interest of justice and fairness, keep verbatim transcripts of the proceedings, exclusive of the Board's private deliberations, which should be kept until final action on the case has been completed.

houses or men's residence halls during scheduled weekend open houses. The AWS handbook previously did not provide for women visiting living quarters during open houses.

Women students are still not to visit private rooms, apartments, or houses where men are present unless a recognized University chaperone is present.

A recommendation stating that "other policies regarding specific details are not within the Board's jurisdiction; thus, no further legislation from the Board is in order at this time," has been sent to the Men's Inter-Residence Hall Council.

The results of the questionnaire representing the opinions of women indicated that the feeling was that daily open policy is neither practical nor acceptable at this time.

The board also accepted the slate of officer candidates presented by the election committee.

Defense Testimony Rocks Mossler Trial

MIAMI (AP)--A defense witness in the Mossler murder trial testified yesterday that a strand of human hair found in the hand of the slain Jacques Mossler was not that of his accused slayer, Melvin Powers.

The witness also testified that it was "improbable" that the hair belonged to Powers' co-defendant and aunt, Mrs. Candace Mossler.

The witness, William Hartner, Dade County crime laboratory chemist, said, based on the color, the hair in the dead man's hand was not that of Powers.

Hartner then said the result of comparison tests could change if Mrs. Mossler used a dye or bleach.

The testimony was discussed by lawyers with the jury out of the courtroom. Defense Attorney Walter Gwinn told the court:

"Mrs. Mossler does not peroxide her hair."

In state testimony, there was a suggestion that Mossler was beaten with a soda bottle before he was stabbed. Answering this, the defense put in evidence the smashed remains of a glass figurine swan, which was found near the victim's head. The base of the figurine never was located.

In a later development, the defense strategy backfired, with attorney Percy Foreman pretty much silenced for the rest of its case. Foreman is the lawyer for Melvin Powers and his aunt, Mrs. Candace Mossler, who are accused of murder in the slaying of her husband.

The defense strategy was to subpoena all witnesses in behalf of Mrs. Mossler and not to call any witnesses for Powers. The reason for this, apparently, was to give Foreman the last word to the jury.

A defendant has this privilege in Florida if he offers no evidence.

Yesterday, Foreman pleaded with Circuit Judge George Schultz for the right to cross-examine the Mossler witnesses. He argued that to deny him this right would deprive Powers of a fair trial.

State Attorney Richard Gerstein had protested that many witnesses called by the Mossler side actually were testifying for Powers.

Butler Wins Debate Here

Butler University grabbed top honors in the University's fifth annual Forensic Honorary Debate Tournament Friday and Saturday in the Union.

The Bowling Green debate team ranked thirteenth in total competition as Robert Olive and David Brunner each scored 106 points.

The sixteen debate teams participating in the meet are considered among the best in the country, tournament officials said.

Butler's two debaters Donald Wall and William Heber defeated Hiram College's Cheryn Heinen and Ken Burton in the final rounds of the debate on the national proposition, "Resolved: That law enforcement agencies should be given greater freedom in the investigation and prosecution of crime."

In a tie for third place were Michigan State University and Wayne State University, last year's defending champion.

The top four teams were awarded trophies and the debaters were presented individual finalist plaques. Top debater was William Neher from Butler University with a total of 154 individual points.

Plaques were also given to debaters receiving superior and excellent ratings, Dr. Otto F. Baure, assistant professor of speech and director of the tournament said.

Receiving plaques for superior debating were second place debaters Laury Eck of Montana State University and Kenneth Newton of Michigan State University.

Doug Carter of the University of Arizona, who placed fourth, and Kermit Terrell of Michigan State University, who ranked fifth also received awards.

Taylor Says New Saigon Government May Include VC

WASHINGTON (AP)-- Presidential adviser General Maxwell Taylor said yesterday the Viet Cong might be included in a new South Vietnamese Government through free elections, but he said he opposes negotiating the Viet Cong into a coalition government.

Taylor seemed to line up conditionally with the position taken Saturday by Senator Robert Kennedy, D-N.Y. Kennedy said the U.S. should admit the Communists and other discontented elements in South Viet Nam into a Saigon government.

In New York yesterday, Kennedy indicated he was talking about a post-election government when he spoke out Saturday. He said his call for Viet Cong participation in a government does not anticipate communist control.

Kennedy was asked whether free elections would mean a victory by the Viet Cong. He said the situation would require "as subtle and brilliant statesmanship" on the part of the U.S. to assure a fair election.

Kennedy's comment yesterday could be construed as narrowing the earlier gap between him and the Johnson administration. Some officials believe Taylor

Miss Ginn will open the program with "Three Early American Songs" by Francis Hopkinson.

Among the concert's selections will be musical arrangements of "Helen" by Edgar Allen Poe as arranged by Edwin Penhorwood; "Sea Fever" by John Masfield, arranged by Albert DeVito; "Mill Doors" by Carl Sandburg, arranged by Norman Dello Joio; and "Send Home My Long Strayed Eyes" by John Donne, arranged by William Flanagan.

Miss Ginn will sing a number from "The Rakes Progress", arranged by Igor Stravinsky.

Paul Pasteur, the soloist's husband, has prepared special arrangements of "Fare Them Well" by T. Eleston; "No. 1 Signature for Tempo" by Archibald MacLeish; "Query" by Theodore Dreiser; and "Two Quatrains" by Edwin Arlington Robinson.

Also included in the program are musical arrangements of James Joyce's "Golden Hair" and "Who Goes Amid the Green Woods," which were composed by Emanuel Rubin, instructor in music at the University.

Campus Calendar

A film on communism, sponsored by the American Opinion Library Inc., will be shown at 7:30 tonight in Memorial Auditorium of Bowling Green City Bldg. It is open to the public.

Dr. Frank C. Arnold, Counseling Center director, and professor of psychology, will speak at 1 p.m. today at Toledo State Hospital.

The hospital is having their in-service training program in supervision, under the direction of Dr. Robert D. Henderson, chairman of the department of business administration.

Dr. Arnold will be attending as a visiting faculty member, and will give a speech on "Evaluations and Counseling."

Tryouts for Orchestras, the University's Modern Dance Club, will be held at 7 tomorrow evening in the South Gym of the Women's Building.

New members for Delsarte, the junior Orchestras Club, are welcome to attend. No tryouts are necessary for membership in Delsarte.

An all-campus, coed recreation night will be held from 9 to 11:30 Friday evening, March 4, in the North Gym of the Women's Building.

Coed volleyball, badminton, table tennis, and shuffleboard are a few of the activities. Gym shoes are required.

Dr. F. James Rybak, associate professor of education will discuss the National Defense Education Act Institutes for Advanced Study at a meeting from 6:30 to 7:45 p.m., Feb. 23, in 105 Hanna Hall.

Institutes are offered in history, reading, geography, English, English as a foreign language, modern foreign languages, teaching disadvantaged youth, school library personnel, and educational media specialists. Each institute lasts six or eight weeks, and most give graduate credit.

Students unable to attend the meeting may receive information at 308-B Hanna Hall.

Plans Set For Military Ball

The coronation of a queen and presentation of the Army ROTC Royal Green will highlight the eighteenth annual Military Ball Saturday, March 12.

"So Proudly We Hailed" has been selected as the theme for this year's ball. Army and Air Force ROTC cadets and their dates will dance to the music of the Glenn Miller Orchestra from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Cadets must submit pictures of queen nominees to Capt. Weston T. Smith, assistant professor of air science, by 6 p.m.,

Wednesday, Feb. 23. The ROTC officers will then select 10 nominees' pictures which will be sent to a special panel to choose the finalists. Five finalists will be chosen by the panel of University faculty and administrators.

Army and Air Force cadets will then vote for the queen Feb. 28 - March 4 in their ROTC classes. The coed receiving the most votes will be crowned queen during the intermission ceremonies on March 12. Other finalists will be her attendants. Another highlight of the intermission ceremonies will be the presentation of the members of the newly formed Army ROTC Coed Auxiliary, "The Royal Green." They will be selected by members of the advanced Army ROTC cadets at a tea Sunday, Feb. 20.

Capt. Mervyn L. Burdge, assistant professor of military science, and Capt. Smith, assistant professor of air science, are serving as advisers for ROTC cadets planning the 1966 Military Ball.

AP World News Roundup

WASHINGTON (AP)--Washington officials commented yesterday that the question of France commanding U.S. and other NATO forces on French soil is something that could be negotiated, but the officials said they were not sure that is DeGaulle's real objective.

The U.S. officials believe the DeGaulle proposal is an opening wedge for breaking up the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO). This could lead to a critical struggle between DeGaulle and other members of the 15-nation alliance, they pointed out.

MANILA (AP)-- Vice President Humphrey arrived in Manila yesterday for talks today on the Viet Nam situation with President Ferdinand Marcos.

The Philippines Congress is now debating Marcos' proposal to send a 2,000-man combat engineer brigade to Viet Nam.

Before Humphrey arrived, left-wing demonstrators marched to the U.S. Embassy. Security precautions were elaborate at the airport when Humphrey arrived from New Zealand.

MOSCOW (AP)-- British Prime Minister Wilson arrived here yesterday for a three-day visit with hopes of getting Soviet Premier Kosygin to join him in a peace call to end the Viet Nam war.

Britain and Russia have the right under the Geneva Conference to convene negotiations.

There have been some reports that the Viet Cong and North Viet Nam may be reducing their terms, but Soviet leaders have shown no sign they are ready to go along.

Their Goal: Service To Others

A Phi O's Harshman Wing Heart Of Service Operations

By GEORGE BRAATZ
Editorial Page Editor

Leadership, friendship, and service, the three cardinal principles of Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, have been able to be carried out more easily since the fraternity was given permission last year to occupy a wing of Harshman A.

Twenty-four of the 44 members of A Phi O reside in the "Garden Apartments," rooms 101-112.

The problem of communication was the original reason an A Phi O wing was considered. With everyone living at various locations around campus, it was difficult to contact anyone when discussion or action was needed on any project, said Joe McGlamery, A Phi O president.

The fraternity confronted Robert G. Rudd, director of residential services, with the problem.

Mr. Rudd explained what he considered in agreeing to this living unit plan for Alpha Phi Omega: "Everything was in their favor. They are a service group and nothing they have done has been a detriment to their name."

"They have proven to be a tremendous example for the rest of the building," he added.

It would seem that living in a unit as Alpha Phi Omega is now doing would be a step toward becoming a social fraternity.

"This is not so," said McGlamery. "We like to live together. It goes a long way toward building brotherhood and helping communication for our purposes, but we would not want a fraternity house as such. We like it here, and feel that other than this would take away from our goal of service."

This wing of Harshman has been put on the honor system. There is no counselor on the floor. "Dean Taylor is keeping an eye on us, though. It's like an experiment," McGlamery said.

The experiment has worked out very well for increasing communication between brothers. "Although I don't live in the wing I always know where to find someone when I need to," Al Baird, second vice president and pledge program director, said.

Neal Allen, head resident of Harshman A and Alpha Phi Omega advisor is also pleased with the results of the living unit. "I'm always handy. They can come and see me about problems more easily than when they just met at their office in the basement of the International Center and I'm better informed about the fraternity."

The Zeta Kappa chapter was established at the University in 1948. It is a service fraternity, not a social fraternity, although the year's program includes a number of social events.

The chapter originated the Alpha Phi Omega loan fund in 1950, which lends up to $50 to students with no interest and three months to pay.

Proceeds from A Phi O's coat check service at home basketball games are donated to the loan fund.

The fraternity established and now sponsors the Bowling Green Red Cross Blood Bank and the University mascot Freddie Falcon was innovated by Alpha Phi Omega between the years 1950-1951.

The chapter originated a book store on campus in 1948 which it operated until the University assumed the responsibility in 1958.

The travel board, located on the third floor of the University Union to assist students in arranging rides, was originated by the fraternity, and A Phi O also sponsors the annual Beauty and the Beast contest.

All proceeds from the chapter's fund-raising activities are donated to charities.

Both Greek and non-Greek affiliated men are encouraged to join the organization. New members participate in a 10-week pledge period before formal initiation. The purpose of the pledge period is to assist pledges in familiarizing themselves with the meaning and procedures of the fraternity.

The pledge period also give new members the opportunity to show that they have a true desire to render service. This is demonstrated by pledge class projects.

This semester's rush begins tonight.

(AP)-- William Embry grew tired of thieves kicking in the front door of his appliance store in Louisville, Kentucky.

So, when he replaced the glass for the third time this year, he and his stepfather, Marshall Marcum, lay in wait in the darkened store. Early today, an intruder kicked the door in again and reached for a television set. Marcum yelled and fired twice with a pistol. He missed the fleeing man. Embry let go with a blast from a shotgun. He too missed the burglar but wrecked a big plate glass window.

Study in Guadalajara, Mexico

The Guadalajara Summer School, a fully accredited University of Arizona program, conducted in cooperation with professors from Stanford University, University of California, and Guadalajara, will offer June 27 to August 8, art, folklore, geography, history, language and literature courses. Tuition, board and room is $265. Write Prof. Juan B. Rael, P.O. Box 7227, Stanford, Calif.

PAMELA GABALAC, newly-elected president of Omega Phi Alpha service sorority, and Carole Close, past president, presided in a candlelight initiation ceremony for 31 new members at the UCF Sunday night. O Phi A's counterpart for men students is Alpha Phi Omega.

Omega Phi Alpha Oriented to 'Others'

By BOBBI LIBB
Staff Writer

"To serve the campus, the community, and the country"--this is the purpose of Omega Phi Alpha, University women's service sorority.

"At times it seems that we become so involved with ourselves that we do not know others exist," said Carole Close, president of O Phi A. "Yet we must realize that our lives consist of more than just our immediate wants and desires. One of the greatest, most self-satisfying things we can do is to give a little of ourselves to others."

"O Phi A is willing to help any campus organization," said Miss Close. Currently they are participating in the Perrysburg Heights Project, a weekly service activity undertaken by the United Christian Fellowship. Working with underprivileged children, the group assists in recreation, arts and crafts and fellowship. In Bowling Green, the chapter offers a babysitting service and also serves teas for various groups. Their services are free but donations are accepted and used for future projects, Miss Close said.

Assisting Alpha Phi Omega, men's service fraternity, in a book-collecting program for St. Louis University in Baguio City, Philippines, and an all-campus magazine drive for the infirmary round out on-campus projects.

A project directed a little further from BG includes a clothes collecting project for a Catholic School system in Peru.

Last year's services by O Phi A included work with area Girl Scouts, participation in the Student Charities Drive, a Christmas party at the Wood County Rest Home, a party for underprivileged children of Bowling Green, tutoring at UCF and campus tours.

O Phi A adviser, Dr. Jacqueline E. Timm, professor of political science, said, "From past experience I can assure each person that our service to others has brought deep satisfaction and joy not only to the persons served, but to our members."

Other advisers are Mrs. Joy Benjamin, clerk of space assignments, and Miss Jean Horn, Lutheran campus worker.

O Phi A pledge must complete a minimum of 15 hours of "service" work before her activation, and all actives must complete 15 hours a semester. An honors banquet is held each semester, and an "outstanding pledge" award is given on the basis of her accumulative service hours and interest in O Phi A work during her semester of pledging.

O Phi A was established in 1952 by a group of University women and the men of Alpha Phi Omega. Its name was derived by switching the Greek letters in the name of the service fraternity.

Originally, O Phi A was open only to former Girl Scouts and Camp Fire Girls. In 1958, the present Alpha chapter was formed. Membership is now open to all University women who are in good standing with the University and have "an earnest desire to fulfill the requirements for membership by participation in its service programs."

Sunday, Feb. 20, 31 new members were initiated in a candle-light ceremony at the UCF. Rush for the spring semester will begin next week.

'Queen And Rebels' Start Run Thursday

"The Queen and the Rebels," University Theatre's dramatic production by Italian playwright Ugo Betti, will open at 8:15 p.m. tomorrow, and will continue Friday and Saturday in the Main Auditorium.

Directed by Dr. Allen N. Kepke, assistant professor of speech, the drama probes man's desire for justice, power, revenge, and personal dignity in a time of political revolution.

Set around a check point on the border of an anonymous nation experiencing political upheaval, the story tells the revolutionist's search for a fleeing queen and the grueling interrogation of Argia, a prostitute who helped her escape.

Vivid characters "spring to life" during the play. Dr. Kepke said. Argia, played by Diane L. Gosnell, "confesses that she is the queen and evolves into one of the marvels of creation, a fully realized person, a 'queen indeed.'"

Amos, the intellectual leader of the revolution, loses faith in the cause in his purposes, and in himself. Arnold Rampersad will play Amos.

Raim, the "sniveling opportunist" played by Jack B. Winget, and Biante, the blood-thirsty militarist portrayed by John M. Myers, provide portraits of familiar figures in times of social upheaval, Dr. Kepke said.

Sandra S. Fabian plays Elisabetta, the queen who becomes little more than a frightened animal.

The setting, an abandoned public building, designed by Prof. John H. Hepler, expresses the chaos, despair, and hope which often surround a revolution.

Others in the cast include Richard C. Lohman, Patrick D. Ashton, Dave C. Farmer, Yvonne Arcidiacono, Paul Retsch, Carolyn Clar, James Lazur, Thomas J. Pendergast, Charles E. Radune, Mary Anne Sambora, Kenneth M. Ulric, and Sue Anne Wolf.

Tickets are $1 for adults, 25 cents for high school students and 10 cents for University students. The box office is open from 11 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Dr. Kennedy, Music School Head, Presides At Cleveland Convention

Dr. James Paul Kennedy, director of the School of Music, was in Cleveland Sunday thru today as presiding officer of the East Central Division of Music Teachers National Association.

The association, founded in 1876, is holding its seventh biennial East Central Division Convention.

Approximately 66 concert artists, faculty members of music schools, colleges, conservatories and universities and private music teachers from Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio are attending the meeting.

More than 150 artists and lecturers will appear on the program. University School of Music faculty members attending are professors Jerome Rose, Dr. Paul Makara, Dr. Bernard Linden, Arthur Howard, and Dr. Charles Gigante and instructors Robert Sanov and Emanuel Rubin.

The University Symphony performed last evening at the general session. The Faculty String Quartet participated in a string session at which Dr. Makara served as session chairman.

Cleveland composer and music critic Herbert Elwell was honored at the convention banquet. High School student winners from the five-state area performed at the banquet Tuesday with the Bowling Green Symphony Orchestra, under the baton of Dr. Gigante.

641 Students Fail To Make Grades

The University dropped 641 students for failure to meet minimum grade requirements for last semester, registrar Glenn Van Wormer said yesterday. This figure includes branch students.

Three-hundred-twenty freshmen were dropped along with 196 sophomores; 83 juniors and 42 seniors.

Of the entire enrollment, 6.4 per cent were dropped.

Two-hundred-sixty were in the College of Education, 197 in Liberal Arts and 184 in Business Administration.

Official enrollment figures for this semester will be announced next week, Mr. Van Wormer said.

PRs Win Medals, Rifle Competition

Four cadets were presented medals and The University's Pershing Rifles announced champion of the recent Regimental Postal Rifle Match at the Pershing Rifles smoker on Sunday evening.

Cadet Lt. Col. Michael Lilygren, executive officer of PR's First Regiment at Ohio State University, made the presentation.

Cadet Larry Ommert, a junior in the College of Business received the Regimental Order of Merit Grade of Officer. The Order of Merit Grade of Member was presented to Cadet Richard Gill, a sophomore in the College of Education.

Cadets Bruce Pfabe, a sophomore in the College of Business, and Thomas Woodward, a freshman in the College of Business, received Regimental Commendation Medals.

Rifle Teams from 18 Pershing Rifle companies in Ohio, Kentucky, and West Virginia participated in the Postal Rifle Match.

HOW CHARLIE MADE A PILE OF DOUGH!

You can too! Here's how he did it.

Charlie needed some cash, and had six Guy Lombardo records, one set of Stutz-Bearcat hubcaps and two tickets to last year's O.U. game. He called the classified advertising department at the B-G News, they whipped up a humdinger of an ad, and Charlie sold everything but one of the Lombardo records 37 minutes after the News hit the stands.

Now Charlie's our big booster. Tells everybody about how the News is the one and only way to reach the BGSU market--11,000 students plus faculty. There's more than classified ads of course--national, campus, sports and other news.

But Charlie's especially sold on the power of classified. Spent so much time telling people about News classified that he's on probation. He's on the way back grade-wise, though.

Got a tutor.

B-G News classified, of course.

Curbstone Hosts Talk On Critical University Issues

"The inadequate instruction of undergraduates in their freshman and sophomore years is a desperate situation," stated Prof. W. T. Lippincott, vice-chairman of the department of chemistry at Ohio State University.

This statement was made Monday evening at a Curbstone program where Prof. Lippincott and several Bowling Green faculty members discussed "The Major Critical Problem in the American University Today."

Prof. Lippincott said that while student enrollment is soaring, faculty is increasing slowly. This creates problems in student-instructor ratio, he said. The question of "who should be admitted to the American university?" was another situation discussed that evening by the professor and BG faculty.

Prof. Lippincott also pointed out that the administration of the American university, "fails to lead the faculty," according to Prof. Lippincott, the administration should provide quality instruction, attract and hold intelligent faculty members, and develop a good balance between teaching and research.

"It is becoming less clear to many what the main purpose of the university is," he said. "Some wonder if it is for teaching or research."

In many cases the university suffers from an imbalance between teaching and research. Prof. Lippincott attributes this imbalance, in many cases, to the professors themselves and makes the comment that, "This doesn't seem right."

He went on to add that these problems may stem from a lack of funds in many cases, and that perhaps this may be the answer to the question.

Prof. Lippincott concluded his statements by pointing out the need for enough fine teachers, money, and time for the teachers to do their jobs to the best of their ability.

Intramural Notes

Entries for the 1966 Indoor Relays are now available from fraternity and dormitory athletic chairmen.

The relays will be held Friday, March 4, at 7 p.m. in the Men's Gym. The competition is open to all.

Entries for the all-campus table tennis doubles are also available from fraternity and dormitory athletic chairmen. Entries for the tournament, which will be held March 8-10, are due March 2.

The all-campus foul-shooting contest will be held tonight. No entries are required, but contestants are to report to Anderson Arena at 8:15 p.m. wearing tennis shoes.

The Intramural All-Star game with the freshmen basketball team will be played prior to the Marshall-BG contest March 2.

'Witching Hour' Nears For Cinderella Rockets

TOLEDO (Special) -- The witching hour of midnight is approaching for the "Cinderella" Rockets of University of Toledo coach Bob Nichols.

The Toledoans, picked for last place in pre-season predictions, ran their Mid-American Conference victory streak to seven straight last week with a 71-66 triumph at Bowling Green and a 76-68 home court win over Marshall.

The wins raised Toledo's league record to 8-1, a game behind leading Miami's 10-1 slate, and set the stage for a showdown battle between the two teams here this Saturday night.

But first Nichols is hoping his surprising Toledo club doesn't forget Western Michigan tonight. The Rockets need a victory over the Broncos to cut the Miami lead to a half game and insure a situation where a Toledo win over the Redskins could give it a share of the MAC crown regardless of what happens in the season finale March 2 at Ohio University.

"We aren't the kind of team that can take anyone lightly," Nichols says. "The only way we've gotten where we are is by scrambling and scratching all the way."

Toledo's two victories last

week set a school record for most consecutive wins (7) in Mid-American Conference games. Now Nichols would like to see his Rockets achieve an even bigger and better mark -- that of most wins in one MAC season.

If they do, it will mean a clear-cut league title. The best season Toledo has ever enjoyed in the MAC was the 10-2 year of the 1953-54 championship team. By sweeping its three remaining contests, Nichols' first Toledo quintet could go into the record books with a record of 11-1.

Senior co-captains Bob Aston (21.0ppg.) and Jim Cox (19.9ppg.) continue their consistently fine play in the league. Last week's other stars were junior Bill Backensto and sophomore Willie Babione.

Backensto pulled Toledo away both Bowling Green and Marshall with key baskets late in the games. In those two contests he hit 11 of 20 shots from the field and 12 of 16 from the foul line.

More important to Nichols was Backensto's defensive work. After BG's Walt Piatkowski had pured in 21 points in the first half, Nichols shifted 6-3 Backensto on the 6-8 Piatkowski. Result: no more points for Walt.

Saturday the Rocket coach shifted Backensto on Marshall's Orville Stepp after he had scored 13 points. Result: four more points for Stepp.

Babione, Toledo's "fireman" deluxe, came off the bench in both games to fire 11 of 15 from the field and six of seven from the foul line and in general spark sagging Rocket fortunes with his all-around aggressive play.

Lee -- Big In Performance

By BOB BRUCKNER
Assistant Sports Editor

Dick Lee is one of the smallest big men in the Mid-American Conference wrestling world.

Each wrestler is individually important to the success of a team, but in a meet that is fought down to the wire, it is the heavyweight who has the final decision to what the outcome will be.

Dick Lee is coach Bruce Bellard's choice as anchor man for the Falcons, and his fine 9-3-1 record is one of the major reasons the team has compiled a record setting 13-1 mark.

Tipping the scales at only 190 pounds, Lee is one of the lightest heavyweights to ever wrestle for Bowling Green, and in the MAC, only Bill Haug of Miami is as light as Dick.

"Dick makes up in desire for what he lacks in weight," said Bellard. "He always goes out there and wants to win."

The biggest man Lee has faced this season is Don Shelton of Western Michigan. Dick was edged by the 280-pound giant, 2-1.

One of Lee's most dramatic victories of the season came in a triple dual meet against Cleveland State, Marquette, and Wayne State. BG breezed by Cleveland

Richey Dropped From Davis Team

NEW YORK (AP) -- The nation's third-ranked tennis player, 19-year-old Cliff Richey of Dallas, was dropped yesterday from the U.S. Davis Cup Squad.

At a news conference here Davis Cup team captain George MacCall said Richey's "School pressures keep him from riguring in our plans." He did not elaborate.

Richey attends high school in Dallas.

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) -- The international bobsled championships continued yesterday at Lake Placid, New York, after a requiem mass was held for Italy's Zergio Zardini.

Zardini was killed Monday when his sled left the course during a run down Mount Van Hoevenberg. All competitors attended the mass prior to the start of yesterday's events.

PRETORIA, SOUTH AFRICA (AP) -- Jack Nicklaus yesterday dropped the second match of his six-match challenge series against South Africa's Gary Player here.

They finished their opening classic Monday deadlocked. Player shot a one-under-par 70 yesterday while Nicklaus had a 75.

Player and Nicklaus were attacked by bees during the first round of their $50,000 challenge series Monday.

After being stung on the face and arms by the bees at the eighth tee, Player and Nicklaus had to receive first aid. They then continued the match and each finished with three-under-par 69's.

At least five spectators in the crowd of about 8,000 were stung seriously by the bees and were taken to a hospital for treatment.

ATLANTA (AP) -- The start of spring training for the Atlanta Braves is only one day off, but four of their top pitchers are still among the unsigned.

They are Tony Cloninger, Ken Johnson, Wade Blasingame and Billy O'Dell. Denny Lemaster left the ranks of the unsigned yesterday.

Flashes Flatten Falcons

By JOHN GUGGER
Sports Editor

Things can't get worse. It's impossible.

Last night's Falcon performance in a 79-66 loss to Kent State was a lot of things, and they were all bad.

Try Walt Piatkowski hitting on 5 of 23 shots for a starter. And fouling out of his fourth straight MAC contest for a kicker.

And Albert Dixon's lackadaisical play at both ends of the court and his being saddled with personal fouls again early in the game. And 1 for 9 from the field, including a missed lay-up that most grade school kids wouldn't take credit for. It wasn't the first time, remember Saturday night?

And Cliff Williams shooting from thirty-five feet out when a Falcon is standing unguarded under the basket on a fast break. The 'People's Choice' hit 2 for 9, which is twice as good as Dixon. WOW!

And Sam Mims hit a blistering 3 for 15 and you begin to wonder how this team ever beat Miami. Mims also grabbed 14 rebounds and maybe this was a bright spot. But don't strain your eyes.

Overall the team hit 25 of 86 from the field, which is 29%. Kent hit 43% and those who know would say that is the difference.

But there is something far deeper than statistics involved. It's called pride, the will to win, and all that nonsense "rah-rah" stuff. Bowling Green didn't have it, and it's hard to put your finger on why not.

Kent didn't have much of it either, but they had 13 points worth more.

Guard Larry Horner, who didn't start a game until last month, scored 18 straight points for the Flashes, 26 in all and it was more than enough. Twenty-two of them came in the second half, when things really got discouraging.

Somehow, BG had moved to a 34-27 halftime advantage. But in six minutes of the second half Kent had tied it and the Falcons finished the rest of the contest playing "catch-me", a little game they've had a lot of experience but no luck at.

After the game Warren Scholler had little to say. Actually, he had nothing to say. He was probably at a loss for words. The man was as stunned and confused as the 3,105 faithful who watched the farce.

Only difference is we can go home and sleep it off. He can't. There's still three games left and someone has to pick up the pieces.

Kent coach Bob Doll was understandably happy in victory. But there was a cautious reserve about his comments. Rumor has it Doll is living on borrowed time at Kent. The win was only Kent's 7th in 22 tries this year. No wonder coaches get gray hairs.

Stuart Traded

PHILADELPHIA (AP) -- The Philadelphia Phillies have traded first baseman Dick Stuart to the New York Mets. In return, the Mets gave up three players from their International League farm club at Jacksonville, Fla. -- catcher Jim Schaffer, and infielders Bobby Klaus and Wayne Graham. The three will be assigned to the Phillies San Diego farm club in the Pacific Coast League. Schaffer and Klaus have had Major League experience.

FINGERTIP CONTROL is exhibited by Bowling Green co-captain Nick Aloï, as the senior guard goes up for two points in last night's losing cause.

Frosh Get Revenge At Kent's Expense

By TOM HINE
Assistant Sports Editor

The key word in the freshman basketball game last night was "revenge," as the Falcons squeaked by Kent State's frosh 84-81, to make amends for their early season loss to the Flashes, 75-61.

Things are looking up for the Baby Birds, winners of four of their last five encounters, including victories over previously undefeated Toledo, and a one-point loss at the hands of Western Michigan.

Kent, led by their 6'5" center from Lorain Admiral King, Doug Grayson, moved into a 10-5 lead in the opening minutes of play. The Falcons chipped away at the scoring gap, and a basket by guard Dick Rudgers at 13:04 pushed them into a 12-10 lead. The Flashes stayed close behind, and finally regained the scoring lead with just under 9 minutes to go in the first half.

Rudgers, who poured in 20 points in the first half, again took charge, scoring two free throws at 7:08 and giving BG a lead which they never relinquished throughout first half action.

The Falcons' slim 41-39 lead at intermission quickly vanished, as the Flashes opened the second half with a pair of quick buckets. Bowling Green soon straightened things out however, and within less than three minutes gone in the half moved back on top, 48-45.

From there, the Falcons stayed in control for the most part, although a Kent basket by Bill Polinsky tied the score at 63-all with less than 9 minutes to play. BG led by 7 in the late stages, 80-73, but several turnover enabled the aggressive Kent Staters to climb within 3 points at the finish.

Bowling Green coach Robert Conibear, who has seen his yearling squad come a long way since early in the season, called the game a "... team victory. We weren't up for the game, but we played as a team."

TU Aces Top MAC

That statistical see-saw that Toledo triggerman Jim Cox and Bob Aston have been riding went through its sixth week of orbit in the Mid-American Conference.

The Rockets' pair of aces continued zooming along atop the individual scoring parade in statistics announced today by Commissioner Bob James.

Cox, the 6-5 forward with the deadly jumper, took over for the fourth time in the past six weeks with an even 21-point average and also is the best point-producer in the MAC with 189 in nine games. Aston is a close second with a 19.9 average.

The 6-8 center from Pittsburgh compensated for losing the scoring lead by vaulting out front in rebounding with an average of 14 per game. Sophomore Al Dixon of Bowling Green, who had been the pacesetter until now, dropped to second with a 13.7 average.
